

Do you need help developing your Disability Action Plan?

We are proud to provide the opportunity to present a

“How to write your own Disability Action Plan” Workshop

Introduction

Developing a Disability Action Plan is a lengthy and time consuming process to ‘get it right’ which will mitigate your risk against a formal disability complaint. Unless you get the Plan accurate and tailored to your services, the results may not help you in the case of a formal complaint.

Deb has created a practical, ‘hands-on’, 5 hour workshop to teach assorted agency representatives how to actually put a Plan together themselves.

Who is this workshop for? This workshop is for any small agencies that provide services to the community, for example; community health centres, community groups, advocacy, youth, arts, housing, education, TAFE’s, childcare, neighbourhood houses, rural Councils, mental health, water boards, all the emergency services and more....

What is the purpose of the workshop? To provide practical help to small organisations to confidently get the process underway and to create an effective Disability Action Plan.

Workshop Overview:

- Disability Legislation explained
- Recommended structure and methodology
- Exploring the most appropriate consultation processes
- Making sense of your research findings
- Identifying your objectives and actions
- Eliminating the barriers and making a start!

A recent testimonial from one of Deb’s workshops:

“Deb Whitecross was absolutely fantastic. The presentation was bright and colorful, easy to understand and the examples provided were most relevant to the topic. She was open, honest, fun and very approachable with a very positive attitude”.
